

#whatgoesupmustcomedown

On August 14, 2014, I jumped out of a plane from 13,500 feet. It. Was. Awesome. I would do it again in a heartbeat! The scariest part was standing at the edge of the plane about to be pushed out while strapped to my new best friend, Eric, who I had met about 20 minutes before. Gravity was my enemy that day, but luckily Eric knew what he was doing and air resistance was on my side. Once I was safely back on the ground and on my way home, I began to wonder how a parachute works and who the first insane person was to jump out of perfectly functional plane. Scan the QR code below to view my prezzi and read what I learned! #scienceiseverywhere #bellacademy #whatgoesupmustcomedown #6thgrade #gravity #airresistance #force #parachute

